

Why Hotel Balzac?

'Love is the poetry of the senses'... Honoré de Balzac

- Hotel Balzac, Paris – created by romantics for romantics
- A 19th century townhouse built for the director of the Paris Opera, now transformed into one of the most exceptional landmarks in Paris
- Steeped in two centuries of history, this 19th century building is named after the famous writer, Honoré de Balzac
- A 57 room and 13 suite luxury boutique hotel on rue Balzac. A quiet, discrete but central location overlooking the Champs-Élysées – an area that was the epicenter of Paris' 'literary romantic movement'
- Some of the best views in Paris – The Royal Suite has a private roof terrace with a breathtaking panoramic view of the Eiffel Tower
- Charming interiors by Anne Marie Sabatier are innately neoclassical and create a truly Parisian style
- Unstintingly luxurious fabrics, elegant and contemporary furnishings are combined with a rich and vibrant colour palette of turquoise blues, chestnuts, plums and coppers
- An exceptionally personal, warm and genuine service – that demonstrates intuition, imagination and feeling, qualities that epitomised the Romantic Movement
- A 24 hour concierge service
- Romantic starry nights in the penthouse suites with a private dinner overlooking the Eiffel Tower
- Brilliantly located, just a minute from Paris' most luxury designer shops, restaurants and landmarks
- Meet in style at Hotel Balzac with easy access to the city's financial district , La Défense
- Encapsulating everything which makes Paris so compelling, Hotel Balzac is built on a foundation of art, music, literature and love
